

9 – 12 November, Online event

What you need to plan your energy productivity projects, make your case and get them over the line

It's one thing to have ambition, it's another to create reality. Energy and sustainability professionals are often up against obstacles to progress: operational, technical and financial.

The Energy Innovation X-press 2020 delivers four mornings of 2 x 60-minute sessions featuring industry experts who will accelerate your energy innovation efforts for 2021 and beyond.

From strategising to quick wins, to making your business case and sourcing funding, this event has been created in response to common glitches that hamper energy productivity improvement and decarbonisation. We also take a look at the many non-energy advantages from innovating energy. We're focused on the real world and the 'how-to'.
